

LEGACY

Irish Traditional Music

P.O. Box 4772, Jackson, Mississippi 39296-5166

www.LegacyIrishMusic.com

An Irish Christmas Celebration Traditional Songs and Music of West Cork

The traditional Irish music trio, Legacy, will return to Michigan this winter to present their program "An Irish Christmas Celebration: Traditional Songs and Music of West Cork." Their tour across Michigan extends from Dec. 13th to the 22nd.

The Christmas show is a collaborative effort of Legacy and their dear friend and frequent guest on stage, Jim Flanagan. The show is a mix of Irish holiday songs and stories along with occasional sets of holiday-themed tune sets (played in traditional style) for good measure. Jim, who originally is from Cork, serves as the MC for the program. As detailed in his bio below, Jim is an accomplished singer/entertainer...and he also is Professor and Chair of the Dept. of Anthropology and Sociology at the Univ. of Southern Mississippi.

Legacy: www.LegacyIrishMusic.com

Legacy has drawn the rapt attention of music fanatics wherever they play. These talented multi-instrumentalists perform an extensive repertoire of tunes and songs from the Irish tradition. Their skill is undeniable, their arrangements complex and challenging, and their performances tight and energetic. Said Dirty Linen magazine: "This band fills the bill...a delicate combination of full-speed-ahead attack and subtle finesse." Legacy appears in varying configurations--for the Christmas tour, the band is performing in the classic power trio format (An Tri'ead) and accompanied by singer/guitar player Jim Flanagan who originally hails from County Cork, Ireland.

Valerie Plested (fiddle, vocals) is among the finest and most expressive young talents in the Southwest's Celtic scene. An exceptional musician, Justin Murphy's (flute, whistles, guitar, bodhrán, vocals) powerful tone on the flute and swaggering rhythm have been compared to such contemporary notables as Seamus Egan and Frankie Kennedy. At the heart of this trio configuration, Michigan native Don Penzien's (guitar, bodhrán, whistles, vocals) DADGAD guitarwork provides the solid, driving rhythms that have long been a hallmark of Legacy performances.

Jim Flanagan: <http://www.flanagansongs.com/>

A native of Ballyvourney, a small village in the heart of the Muskerry Gaeltacht (an Irish speaking area) in County Cork, Jim Flanagan now lives in Hattiesburg, Mississippi. He has performed at major festivals (Milwaukee, Dallas, Colorado, Atlanta, New Orleans, Savannah, Austin, Jackson) and in regular pub performances over the years has established himself as a significant force in Irish music in the Southeastern United States. Steve Winick (Dirty Linen) compares him favorably to Daithi Sproule (of Altan) and the great traditional singer Joe Heaney (Seosamh Ó hÉanaí) - in whose company any Irish singer would be proud to be placed.

Ballyvourney is an area long recognized as a center of poetry, music, and dance. It is the birthplace of many highly respected poets and musicians, among these the famous poet Seán Ó Riordáin. Many great Irish musicians have lived in the area, including Seán Ó Riada, Jackie Daly, John Connell, and the great source singer Elisabeth Cronin. Flanagan draws on this wellspring of tradition with pride of place in his stage performances. He provides a mix of both Irish language and English language songs; songs based in the old style (sean nós) tradition as well as contemporary ballads, many of which lend themselves well to audience participation. His performances are interwoven with his compelling Irish humor, the stories of Ireland and his memories of home, leaving one with a feeling of having been entertained and enriched as well.

Legacy and Flanagan have collaborated to produce a new Christmas holiday album which will be released during the tour. The CD will feature a total of 16 tracks of holiday-related material. For a preview, several rough mixes of songs/tunes from the recording are available for download at: <http://www.legacyirishmusic.com/page.htm>

A full listing of Legacy's tour dates and venues is available at: <http://www.LegacyIrishMusic.com/Calendar.htm>

For more information, contact Don Penzien at 601.454.5573, e-mail: penzien@gmail.com